

The Mount Moriah Cemetery
Of The Welsh Society of Philadelphia
Prepared by Charles David Wenzel
April 12, 2010

Something of a historical mystery surrounds the inception, growth, and especially the use of our society's ten thousand square foot cemetery plot in the Mount Moriah Cemetery in Philadelphia. To unravel the circumstances of its location, size, and who is interred there required research into the Welsh Society's minutes, the financial records, the Sons of St. Davids Society's Interment Record, and four other interment records, all referring to the current "occupants" of the Welsh Society owned, Mount Moriah Cemetery Plot.

It is essential for me to include a caveat that while I have tried to be accurate in this report, I may have misinterpreted some piece of data, or the reader may have different or better information than I have found. Some conflicts of data appear in various reports and some dates use the dates of meetings rather than the event dates. Correction or additions that have the support of documentation will be welcomed by the Welsh Society Membership and the history record at the Magill Library in Haverford College.

To find the motivation for a Welsh burial plot we have to recall the welcoming services which the Philadelphia Welsh provided to the immigrants from Wales who arrived in the port of Philadelphia. The society treasurer, and some times the president, of The Sons of Saint David's Society, (or Saint Davids Society) the forerunner of today's Welsh Society, and latter the Welsh Society officers, met the ships and offered immigrants temporary shelter, food, legal and medical services, and when necessary, a burial site "so that no worthy Welshman need be buried in a pauper's grave."

The splendid records of the Welsh Society's archives now reside in the Special Collections Section of the Magill Library at Haverford College in Haverford, PA. Researchers can now locate both the immigrants and members names in those records, together with information on where immigrants intended to locate in the United States.

In 1681 a group of Welsh people purchased a tract of 30,000 acres adjacent to the city of Philadelphia to be known as "The Welsh Barony." An organization from those Welshmen latter formed the "Sons of Saint David Association of Philadelphia." It was described by Benjamin Franklin in his Pennsylvania Gazette's March, 1729 Edition in which Franklin described the members "marching with leeks in their hats" to a church service based on "Let Brotherly Love Continue" and dinner at the Indian King Restaurant to celebrate St. Davids Day. While it is not known when the first Welsh Organization began, it was sometime between the 1681 date and the 1729 date mentioned. The Sons of St. David Society became "defunct" in 1834 when the membership was reduced to one.

One document records that "a certain William Hamilton granted a plot of ground in Hamilton Valley as a burial plot for the Welsh of all denominations." That undated document makes it difficult to determine when the plot was given, but it seems likely that it was the land on Washington Street which became the St. David's Cemetery for any Welsh regardless of their affiliation with the St Davids Society. Financial support came from an endowment of $3,064.12 from John Kemble of Philadelphia in 1828.

The original St. David's Society Cemetery site was in the sparsely populated west part of town on Washington Street, in the Township of Kingsessing. This location of 50ft front by 214ft to Oak Sreet, served its purpose well until "Southwest Philly" developed into a commercially active area making it a cemetery "buried" among the stores and markets. Further, the St. Davids Society was being "upstaged" by the state-chartered Welsh Society of Philadelphia begun in 1798.

Samuel Meredith, as the first president of the Welsh Society of Philadelphia, together with Jacob Morgan as Vice President, Owen Foulke as Secretary, and Thomas Cumpston, Treasuer, as well as fifty three other Welshmen and seven "Honorary Members" began The Welsh Society of Philadelphia. The date was St. Davids Day, 1798. Meredith remained president until 1816. (His papers now reside in the Special Collection Department of the University of Delaware)

The Welsh Society's minutes of March 1, 1811 describe the remaining two St. David Society members, John Griffith and Samuel Jenkins, appealing for funds to repair and maintain the cemetery plot. The minutes of May 4, 1811 show that the request was denied by the Welsh Society "because their funds could not be put at the disposal of other institutions" despite the fact that their members were also being buried there.

After that appeal for funds failed, and to protect the integrity of the Welsh buried there, on June 2, 1834 the last member of the St. David's Society, Lewis Walker, transferred the title of the cemetery plot to The Welsh Society of Philadelphia for the sum of one dollar. As usual, a committee was formed to oversee the property and arrange any future burials. The minutes of that time show frequent maintenance services were performed for the upkeep of this Welsh Burial Plot.

In 1835 a set of rules was established regarding the use of the cemetery:

1. Only people of Welsh decent could be buried there.
2. Burials must be approved by the committee.
3. The ground is to be divided in the middle by a walk extending north to south, not less than 61 inches wide, and graves dug east to west.
4. No changes may be made to these rules without a two thirds members' approval.

An enterprising Connell family acquired several adjacent properties in West Philadelphia and founded the Mount Moriah Cemetery Association of Philadelphia (Mt. Moriah Cemetery) running along Cobbs Creek. This "upscale cemetery" attracted the burial of many early, wealthy Philadelphia families. Today, the Cobbs Creek Parkway splits the cemetery into two parts.

In an unsigned letter dated December 3, 1806, presumed to be signed by the then president Samuel Meredith, authority is given to accept a plot of ground from the Hon. Geo. Connell in Mount Moriah Cemetery in "contemplation of purchasing more ground adjacent, or in an equally favorable location in said cemetery."

On the 29th day of December in 1863 "Henry P. Connell and wife" conveyed property to the Mount Moriah Cemetery Association of Philadelphia described in an indenture dated the second of April 1864, which also transferred a plot of that property to the Welsh Society of Philadelphia for the sum of $1,500. The indenture is signed by R.P. King, President, and George Connell, Secretary, of the Mt. Moriah Cemetery. H.P. Connell was witness to the transaction as was William Davis, an Alderman. While no Welsh Society members' names or signatures appear on the document, it seems appropriate to assume that the Welsh Society's then President, Horatio Gates Jones, the Vice President Ellis Lewis, the Secretary William F. Parry, and the Treasurer William H. Morgan Jr. were most likely all present and pleasantly involved.

With the acquisition of a Welsh Society burial plot in Mt. Moriah Cemetery, the Washington Street Cemetery plot was sold for $4,700. to James Miller and the bodies buried there were moved to the Mt. Moriah Cemetery. Under a contract with Joseph Freas for $150. the forty seven bodies were to be exhumed, transported, and reburied in the new location. The minutes record that the Society's treasury was reimbursed for the money spent on the Washington Street property ($1,982.19) and the balance invested.

It was decided that no head or foot stones would be permitted to mark the graves. Notwithstanding that rule, the minutes state that seventeen stones were erected and the widow of Edgar J. Mann "Late of Pwllhelli" who died in 1949 while visiting the U.S., commissioned a stone to his memory. Currently, there are no upright stones on the plot, but a few lying nearby may have been from the plot.

In an interment record prepared for The Welsh Society by Mount Moriah Cemetery in 2003, there are 148 names of those buried in plot #203. This includes the 47 moved from the original St. David's Cemetery. As will be shown later, there are several inaccuracies resulting from five separate records, some difficulty reading handwriting, and a scribe who was not familiar with Welsh names.

On July 1, 1912, two checks for $500. were given to The Mount Moriah Cemetery Association for the perpetual care of our plot. One of these was written by the Welsh Society and the other was given by George Pierce Esq. for Isaac Ambrose, Treasurer of the Welsh Society. Both checks were receipted by H.P. Connell, per G.F. Connell.

Today the Welsh Society's burial plot is #203 in Mt. Moriah Cemetery. It is easily accessible from Cobbs Creek Parkway or Kingsessing Avenue. The cemetery address is 6201 Kingsessing Avenue, Philadelphia, PA 19142, Phone: 1-215-729-1295.

That brief history brings us to the question of who is buried in The Welsh Burial Plot and where as the cemetery uses two different methods to identify grave locations. The answers are contained in five different registries.

- The Original St. David's Cemetery Interment Record
- The transfer of bodies to the Mount Moriah Welsh Plot
- The Welsh Society record book of bodies in Mount Moriah
- The check stubs of people who were to be buried and the hand written notes instructing them to be buried with another person.
- The record prepared by the present cemetery association in 2003.

Suffice to say that no two records are alike. Further, some burials were not identified other than descriptions such as "three children" or "David Williams and wife." Notes found on the back of the receipt book provide instructions for burials

Using the most recent and legible record, I have posted information from the other records and corrected what seemed to me to be obvious errors.

Interments in the Mount Moriah Cemetery
for The Welsh Society of Philadelphia
April 17, 2010
Prepared by Charles David Wenzel

As described in my April 12, 2010 history of the two Welsh Burying Grounds, there are several records and references which together should describe the "final" list of Welsh buried in our Mt. Moriah Cemetery plot. I write "should describe the final list" because there are missing names, omissions, and obvious spelling errors.

To begin, my April 12, 2010 document reported that Joseph Freas was paid $150. by the Welsh Society to exhume, transport and rebury the forty seven bodies buried in the Washington Street Cemetery. I can only match sixteen names from that list with the list from Mt. Moriah. Further, even some of those matching names have vastly different ages which leads one to question whether they are the same. For example, is the Enoche Moses whose age is shown as eighteen months, the Enoche Moses who was shown as seventy one years old? If not, the second Enoche is missing.

To try to reconcile the lists, I have provided a commentary on a copy of the "Official Burial List" that will explain both the matches and the mismatches. The reader can compare the lists and make a decision about what seems to be a puzzle about where the other bodies are. As a clue, it is obvious that the transfer of bodies should have occurred in April and May of 1863 and appear on the first two or three pages of the report. The Washington Street property was sold and had to be cleared out. Freas was paid April 29, 1864.

As this record may be the last to research this subject, and on the off chance that someone, someday may have reason to locate the property, here is the location as recorded in our minutes:

"A certain lot on piece of ground situated on the South Side of Washington Street in the Village of Hamilton in Blockley Township in the County of Philadelphia being that lot in the general plan of the said village No. 3, containing in front on Washington Street 50 feet and in depth to Oak Street 214 feet, 6 inches. Bounded on the north by Washington Street, on the east by Lot #5, on the south by Oak Street , and on the west by Lot #1."

There are five records of the burials. Copies, or originals of all of these are attached or enclosed with the final submission of this report. Where there are copies the originals are in our archives. I will not retain any original records.

Register of the Welsh Society's Cemetery, West Philadelphia

There are 32 names on this two page list. Note that the numbers begin at number 8. (Is there a prior page?) This record begins with dates in 1814 and ends with burials in 1864, the year that some were transferred. The name line may include a wife or child buried together with the husband or father.

There is a single sheet list of those bodies which were to be moved from the old cemetery to the new one. Most of these can be found on the Mt. Moriah list, but not all. Note that some on the list have more than one name. I have not been able to identify 15 of those names with names on the Mt. Moriah list.

The small check register records payments made for burials.

This register applies to the interments in Mt. Moriah Cemetery.

The earliest receipt is dated April 4, 1857, and the latest was February 12, 1953. In total there are 137 receipts.

Note the several instructions on the page opposite the receipt.

Those notes instruct the Society to bury one person with another, and sometimes with two others

The Mt. Moriah list has 147 names on it; as some are those moved and others in the receipt book, the list should have more names.

Here too, there are burials of more than one person in a grave.

Finally, there are separate reports of single interments which are not in any record. These are infrequent, but will alter the reconciliation if one is attempted. A few of these are noted in the large record of cemetery expenses and contributions. Edgar Mann was buried in December, 1949. He died while on a visit to the U.S. Ironically, There is also a William B Mann who also died in December, 1949 and is buried with his wife, Mary in grave number 122. One is in the checkbook, one is not.

In conclusion, this research has been interesting and also frustrating. I am satisfied that I was able to assemble all of the documents that relate to the present condition of The Welsh Society's Burial Ground at the Mt. Moriah Cemetery. I have no conviction that I have solved all of the inconsistencies that exist among the related lists, and unless many of the bodies were disinterred, I don't believe there is a way to achieve absolute accuracy. Jesus instructions to "let the dead bury the dead" may be our best option.

The cemetery is open to public access and poorly maintained. My offer to assemble a few volunteers to clean up our plot was rebuffed because "only the union employees can do work there." While it would be attractive to have a quality sign or stone marking the large plot, it may be vulnerable to quick ruin from various outside forces.

I plan to distribute this information and supporting materials in a manner that informs our Society and protects the documents. Accordingly, I will send Charles W. Lentz this report together with the map of the cemetery and all original materials. In addition, I will send copies to David Walker, Jr. and Jason Jones, the current president.

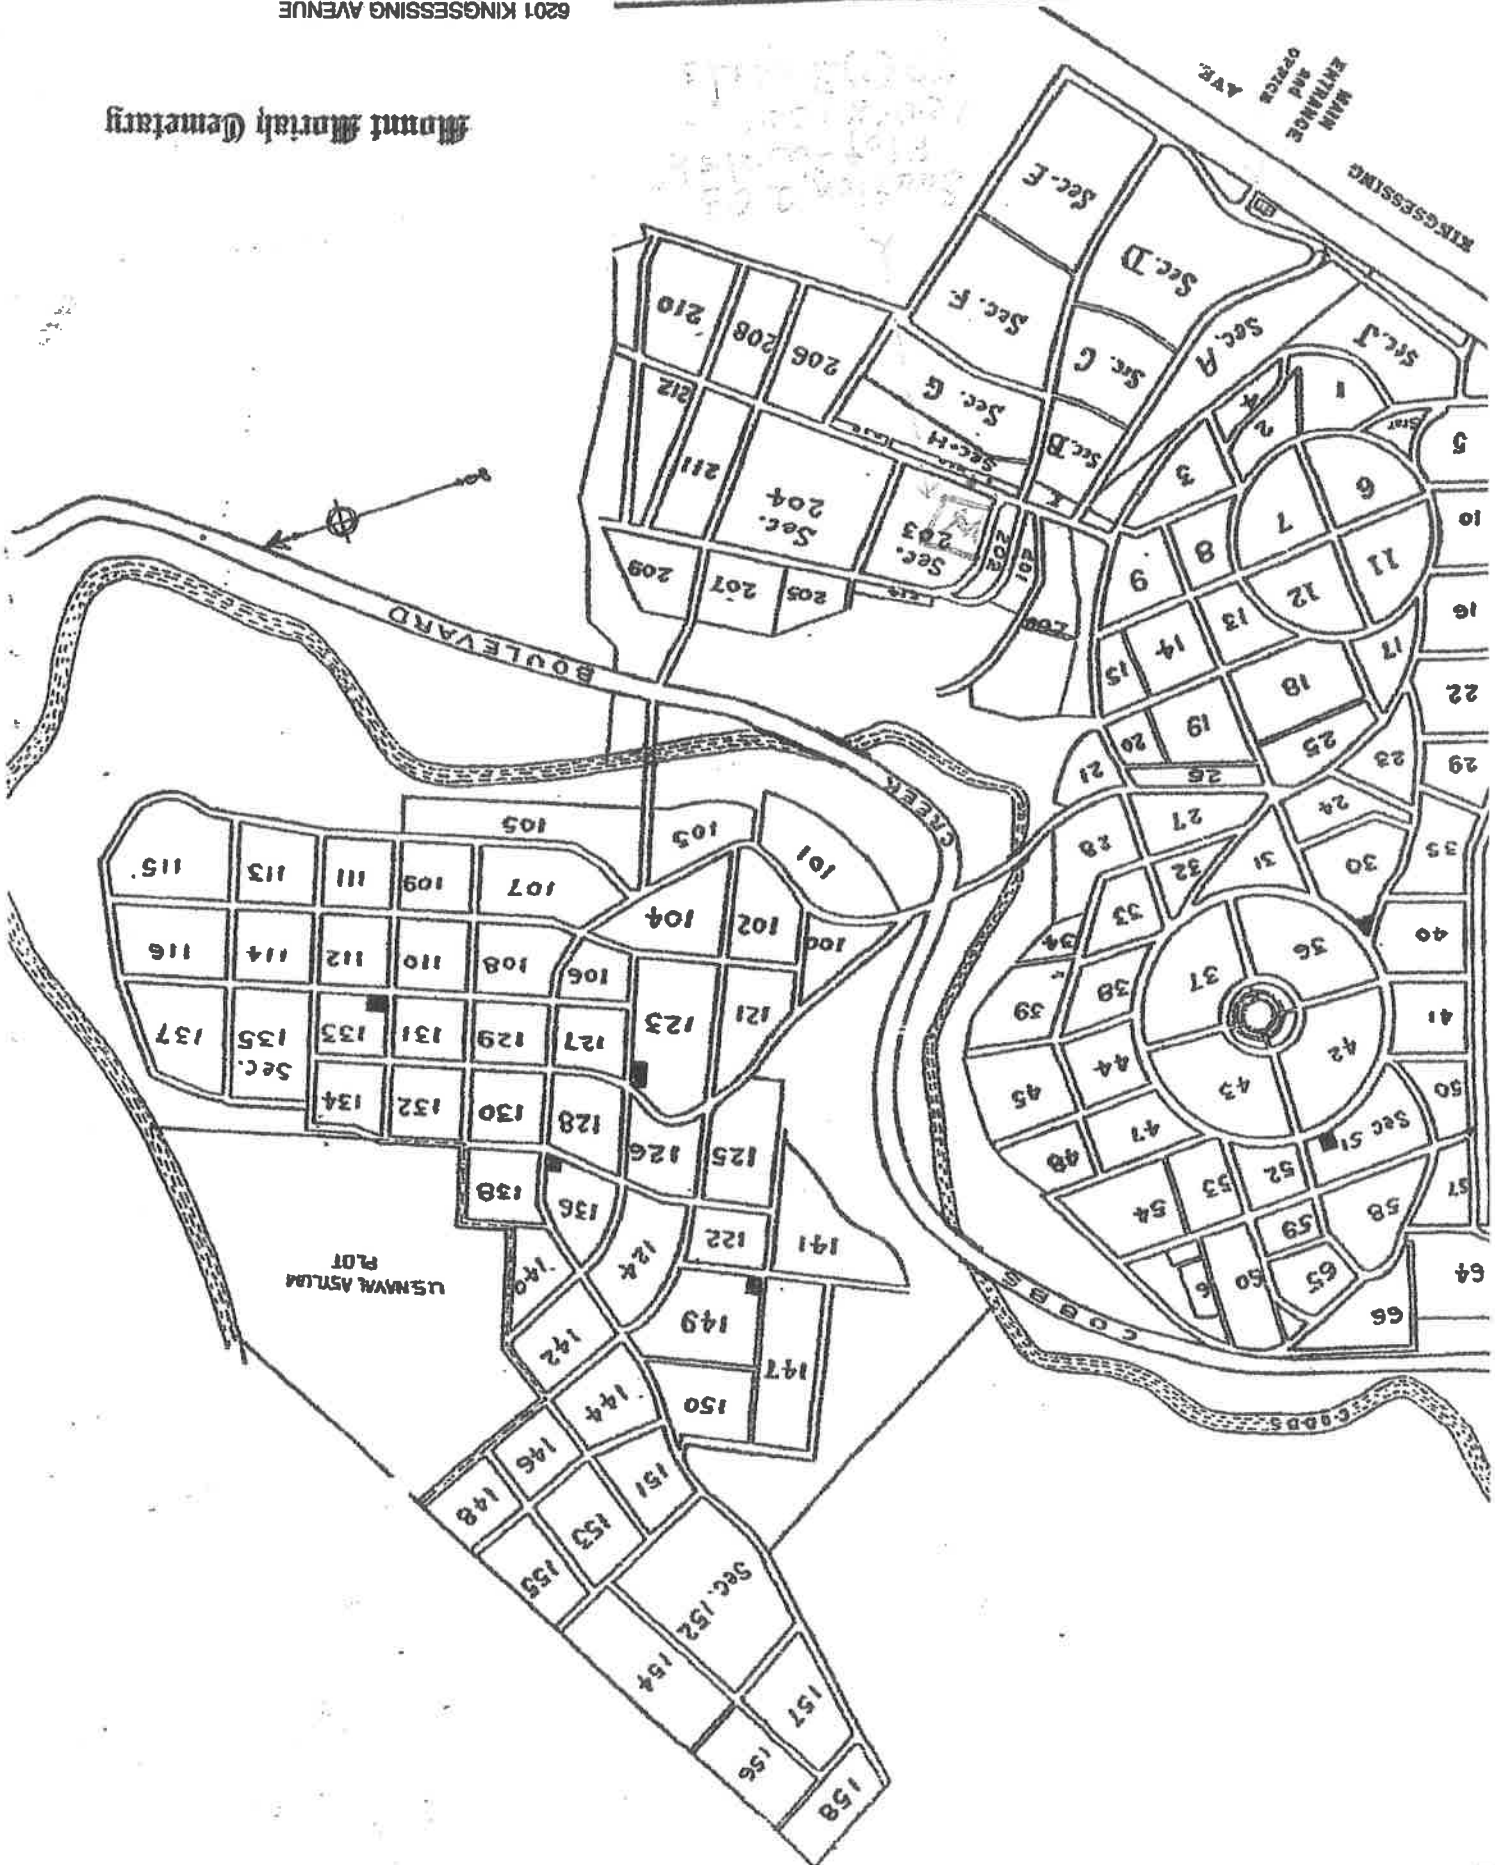

A copy will be sent to the Special Collections Section Librarian of the Magill Library at Haverford College. The supporting materials can be deposited as the society believes proper.

Because I committed to sending this to Arturo Roberts and NINNAU, a copy will go to him. This report is too lengthy for the paper so I will leave to him to use it as he sees proper and beneficial. He may contact me to edit.

I hope that this effort will provide the information needed for our society to make informed decisions regarding the future of this major asset.

Subject: Mt Moriah list...

Dear Chuck:

I've begun (slowly) keying the Mt Moriah list into Microsoft Excel (please see attached.) It's already become fascinating. Some disinterments (why? - and where did they go?) And so many burials on the same date - were these the people moved en bloc from the earlier Welsh cemetery? I am not au fait with the burial customs of that era, but some years ago at Laurel Hill cemetery, researching my great-great grandparents, I did find that great-great grandfather Joseph Schofield had been buried out in a churchyard along Germantown Pike, along with his James Lees relations (our family was then in carpets as well as textiles), but when his wife died a decade or two later the family had him moved to Laurel Hill, to be with his wife. There was still a 19th century note in the Laurel Hill files noting that the undertakers would make the transfer the morning of great-great grandmother Mailie Seville Schofield's funeral. Ave atque vale and all that.

Thanks again for your information and encouragement.

All the best,

David
