

COWBRIDGE, with LLANBLETHIAN. Kelly's

COWBRIDGE is a market town and municipal and contributory parliamentary borough and parish, in the Southern division of the county of Glamorgan, with a station on the Llantrisant, Cowbridge and Aberthaw branch of the Taff Vale railway, distant 172 (by rail 186) miles from London, 12 west from Cardiff, 8 south from Llantrisant and 7 south-east from Bridgend, hundred and petty sessional division of its own name, Bridgend and Cowbridge union and county court district, rural deanery of Gronoeth Lower (eastern division) and archdeaconry and diocese of Llandaff. The town consists principally of one long street stretching from east to west, and is divided by a small stream, over which there is a stone bridge of one large arch. It is lighted with gas by a company, and the drainage, though not complete, has already cost the corporation a considerable sum. The town is supplied with water from springs and wells.

In the year 1091 the town was encompassed with a stone wall, by Robert de St. Quintine, who also built the Castle of Llanblethian, of which only one gateway now remains standing. A charter was granted to the town in 1682 by Charles II. confirming the privileges granted by previous sovereigns, and the Corporation formerly consisted of two bailiffs, twelve aldermen and twelve capital burgesses, there was also a mayor, who acted as constable of the castle, but was not recognised as a member of the Corporation, although acting as a magistrate within the borough. Under the provisions of the "Unreformed Corporations Act, 1883" (46 and 47 Vict. c. 18), the Corporation was dissolved, but on the petition of the inhabitant householders a new charter of incorporation was granted in March, 1887, and the town is now governed by a mayor, 4 aldermen and 12 councillors who also act as the Urban Sanitary Authority. The county coroner acts within the limits of the borough. Cowbridge together with Cardiff and Llantrisant forms the Cardiff parliamentary district, returning one member to Parliament.

The church of St. Mary, Cowbridge, formerly a chapel to Llanblethian, is a building of stone, in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, north porch, and a fine embattled western tower, containing 8 bells: in the church is a memorial to Dr. Benjamin Heath Malkin M.A., F.R.A. the historian of South Wales, who was buried here: the church was restored in 1851 at a cost of £1,800, and again in 1894 at a cost of £800, and affords 640 sittings. The register of baptisms for St. Mary's dates from the year 1718; marriages, 1753; burials, 1735.

The church of Llanblethian, standing on an eminence, is an ancient edifice of stone, in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, south transept, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles, containing 6 bells: there are 200 sittings. The registers of Llanblethian date from the year 1661. The living of Llanblethian, with Cowbridge and Welsh St. Donats is a vicarage, tithe rent-charge (vicarial), £191, average £141, gross yearly value £252, net £190, in the gift of the Bishop of Llandaff, and held since 1886 by the Rev. David Bowen B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter.

1828, is a plain building of stone, with sittings for 320. The Welsh Wesleyan chapel, High street, is now closed. The English Wesleyan chapel, East Village, erected in 1889 at a cost of £1,650, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, and has 300 sittings. The Calvinistic Methodist chapel, in the Limes, is a building of stone, with sittings for 370.

The Town Hall and Market House, built by the Corporation many years ago, at a cost of £700, is a building of stone, situated in the High street, and will hold 350 persons. A new Institute and Lecture hall was erected in 1895, at a cost of £700, of which £500 was given by the late Mr. Nathaniel Bird, of Cowbridge.

The market is held every Tuesday, and is purely agricultural. The great markets are held the first Tuesday in every month, chiefly for cattle. Fairs are held the Tuesday before March 25th, May 4th, June 24th, Sept. 29th and the first Tuesday in December.

Here is a district lodge of the Manchester Unity of Oddfellows.

The charities (a list of which is in St. Mary's church) are as follows:—Mrs. Catherine Williams, by will, dated 27th November, 1682, bequeathed the sum of £100 to the town of Cowbridge, the interest to be yearly paid for the relief of the poor of the said town. Sir Leoline Jenkins left, by will, dated 20th June, 1685, the sum of £20 once in every four years, towards apprenticing poor children or clothing poor people of the town of Cowbridge, at the discretion of the master of the Grammar School. Mrs. Mary Wilcox also left two closes of land in the parish of Llanblethian, the rent of which to be yearly distributed to the poor of the town of Cowbridge, at the discretion of the bailiffs. Mrs. Rebecca Wyndham likewise left, by will, the sum of £100, which, together with the interest thereof, purchased the moiety of a tenement of lands called Pencoed, in the parish of Llanilid, the profits of which to be applied towards apprenticing poor children of the town of Cowbridge, at the discretion of the minister and churchwardens for the time being. Mrs. Cecil Thomas' house, near the Cross, in the town, Mr. Thomas Thomas' house, near the Weigh-house, Mrs. Mary Morgan's house, near the Market place, and a field, called by the name of Tair Erw Heoly Smallway, in the parish of Llanblethian, are charged with the yearly sum of 12s. each, which, with 4s. from the Corporation, is left to be distributed in bread to the poor of the town on every Sunday after divine service, at the discretion of the churchwardens. Mr. Walter Williams, by a codicil to his will, dated 16th January, 1796, bequeathed the yearly sum of £4 for ever, to be issuing out of the rents and profits of a tenement of lands called "The Paddocks," situated in the Western Village of the town of Cowbridge, to be

Schools.

The Grammar School, in Church street, endowed by Sir Leoline Jenkins, Judge of the Prerogative Court & Secretary of State in the reign of James II. was purchased by him of Sir Edward Stradling, of St. Donat's Castle, & subsequently devised to the principal, fellows & scholars of Jesus College, Oxford. He also founded, in connection with it, five monitorships, each of the present value of £16 10s. The scholarships & fellowships originally attached to the school are now thrown open to general competition; & English boys who have been educated in the school for four years enjoy equal advantages with the Welsh in competing for the fellowships & scholarships of Jesus College, Oxford. The present building, together with a residence for the head master, was erected by the principal & fellows of Jesus College, Oxford, in the year 1847. The endowment of the school has, since January, 1883, been increased by £200 a year, & in 1891 there was a further augmentation of £200 a year on a scheme arranged by Jesus College, Oxford, & the Charity Commission. The interior arrangements of the school buildings have been much improved. Rev. William Franklen Evans M.A. of Jesus College, Oxford, head master; Rev. Thomas Read M.A. Exeter College, Oxford, second master; David Percival Jones B.A. of Jesus College, Oxford, mathematical master
